

thrive when we invest in families before challenges become crises. Prevention is key to making that vision a reality.

We can all help strengthen families. Provide families with the tools and support they need when they need them. Support policies like affordable childcare and housing options. Back community efforts that offer concrete supports to families. Small acts—encouraging a parent, mentoring a child or volunteering—also make a difference.

Together, we can break cycles of adversity and build a Kansas where every child is safe, nurtured and full of possibility. This April and beyond, join us in celebrating the power of hope and the strength of prevention.

Seeds of mistrust

The seeds of mistrust in the Democratic Party were sown when a clear-eyed Barack Obama looked the American people in the face and told us “If you like your plan, you can keep your plan”.

The message was received loud and clear: Democratic politicians have no problem deceiving their constituents in pursuit of their objectives.

During the Biden administration, deception escalated into full-fledged Orwellianism, like “the border is under control” or that “white supremacy was the number one terrorist threat facing the nation.” Or those 51 former Intel officials who said that Hunter Biden’s laptop had “the earmarks of Russian dis-information,”

Baghdad Bob finally met his match in Joe Biden and the Democratic Party, who, without blinking an eye, participated in one fantastical dystopian charade after another.

Democrats, like the late, great John F. Kennedy, no longer exist; they have been replaced by apostates, whose only reason for existence has become the acquisition of power, even if it means running the mighty Titanic into an iceberg.
